

Assistant or Associate Professor of International Business

The University of San Francisco (USF) School of Business and Management anticipates a tenure track faculty position at the assistant or associate professor level, beginning Fall 2009. We are seeking candidates whose researches are related to the globalization of Chinese companies, especially the entries and expansions of Chinese companies into U.S. and other western countries. The candidate will also be expected to teach some international business courses and advise IB students. Candidates with appropriate record of research or potential for high impact research and with demonstrated excellence in teaching are highly desired. Ph.D. or DBA is required. ABD with a plan for completion by the date of appointment may be considered.

Interested candidates should email their curriculum vitae, letter of interest, name, address and phone numbers of three professional references to Roger (Rongxin) Chen (chenr@usfca.edu), Dept. of Marketing, Globalization and Strategy, University of San Francisco, School of Business and Management, 2130 Fulton Street, San Francisco, CA 94117. Women and minority candidates are strongly encouraged to apply.
