

UNIVERSITY OF SAN FRANCISCO
School of Business and Professional Studies

The University of San Francisco School of Business and Professional Studies seeks applicants for a tenure-track faculty position at the rank of assistant or associate professor starting Fall 2011 in the field of Strategy. We seek applicants who will teach and conduct research in the following area:

Strategy and globalization of Chinese businesses, especially Chinese businesses entering the North American market. Native or near-native Chinese (Mandarin) language ability is preferred.

A successful candidate must meet the following minimum qualifications: (1) an earned doctorate in strategy or a related field by the time of appointment; (2) an expectation of excellence in teaching; and (3) an established or emerging research program. The successful candidate will teach both required and elective undergraduate and MBA courses. You will undertake scholarly research in a collaborative and supportive environment that welcomes inter-disciplinary and practice-oriented scholarship as well as discipline-based and theoretical work.

The School of Business and Professional Studies offers bachelor and master degree programs. The School is housed in Malloy Hall, a new, purpose-built facility with fully modern classrooms, offices, and informal workspaces.

Applications Instructions: Interested candidates should submit a curriculum vitae, letter of interest, and contact information to: StrategySearch@usfca.edu. The search chair is Prof Roger (Rongxin) Chen, chenr@usfca.edu (you may e-mail chenr@usfca.edu if you have questions, please DO NOT send application materials to this e-mail account).
